BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY

Aaron Sniderman has over 10 years of experience working with diverse business units in a variety of industries, including the Service Industry, Corrections, Education, and Healthcare.

Most recently he has worked within Jefferson's Risk Management Department, where he handled Workers' Compensation and Property claims. Since coming to Jefferson in 2012, Aaron has led process improvement efforts, participated in multiple culture change initiatives, and worked to increase employee safety.

He has experience working with front line staff as well as senior leaders and recognizes the importance of communicating effectively to Jefferson's variety of employee populations. He believes in leveraging the collective experience and expertise of groups to drive culture and operational changes. His range of work experiences and belief in employee engagement/empowerment allows him to provide thoughtful recommendations and innovative solutions to address client needs.

Aaron is a classic car enthusiast who often goes to car shows, auctions, and museums in his free time.
