BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY

Christine has over 15 years of Human Resource experience and 11 years in Nursing Leadership in Delaware Valley hospital-based facilities.

Over the last several years, she has experienced many challenges in supporting over 1,000 employees and their leaders to meet the ever changing needs of an acute care system. She has successfully developed trusting relationships with both employees and leaders alike.

Christine began her HR career as a clinical staff recruiter. She joined Abington as a Nurse Recruiter and transitioned to a Senior Human Resource Business Partner in 2010. In the Senior HRBP role, her work experience has been centered in the support of employee relations, talent management, strategic planning, work/role redesign and development/change management of staff reporting to the Vice President of Patient Care Services.

Prior to working at Abington she had chosen to move from her Nurse Leadership role to an HR recruiter position for a work/life balance that allowed her to spend more time with her daughter. Christine's previous leadership roles as Director of Maternal/Child Services and Nurse Manager of Oncology Unit, Intravenous Team give her a strong foundation on which to build relationships in her role as an HR Business Partner.

Christine's various experiences working with managers and leaders have strengthened her coaching and internal consulting skills, which she enjoys very much. She is passionate about her work and strives to align the values of the organization to support the culture of patient and employee safety. Her ability to understand the details and then objectively look at the total picture helps her influence others in regard to the situation and decisions. She has the credibility and respect of the stakeholders in the organization.

In her personal time, she enjoys looking for treasures at flea markets, spending time at the beach with her family, gardening and cooking for family and friends.
