BIOGRAPHICAL SUMMARY

Suzanne has over 20 years of Human Resources experience in functional and management roles within the healthcare and health care related industry.

Suzanne prides herself on her ability to form strong bonds with employees, leaders and other stakeholders of the organizations in which she supports and where she has managed the HR function. Her strong HR generalist background enables her to provide varied Human Resources credible coaching and consultative services to meet the needs of the environments being served.

Suzanne's current position is Senior Human Resources Business Partner at Abington Hospital. In her role, she partners with department directors and managers to provide HR expertise and consultation in areas relating to employee relations, talent management, strategic planning, work/role redesign, organizational effectiveness/development and change management.

Suzanne has held both operational HR roles and management level positions in organizations ranging from 500 to 25,000 employees, both in the private and non-profit sectors. Her responsibilities have included managing employee/labor relations, talent acquisition, HR-related M&A initiatives, employee engagement and team building, workforce planning and total rewards strategies. Prior to joining Abington, Suzanne was Director of Human Resources for Precyse Solutions and Corporate HR Manager for Universal Health Services.

She strongly believes in doing the right thing, thinking critically and considering all relevant information as it relates to a matter in order to provide well-thought out and reasonable solutions. The work that she performs reflects the organization's mission, vision and values.

In her personal time, Suzanne enjoys spending time at the beach with her family, attending her children's sporting events and is an avid gardener.
